21st Annual Women's Health Day Announced

Elizabeth Cockey

SALEM – The Salem Area Woman's Club continues to plan for the 21st Annual Women's Health Day "By Women, For Women".

This year's event will be held on Saturday, April 25 with the theme "By Women For Women". It is cosponsored by the Woman's Club and Glens Falls Hospital, with the support of multiple local sponsors and contributors. Women's Health Day is held at Salem Central School with assistance from administration and custodial staff. Included will be a continental breakfast, luncheon and door prizes, kindly donated by local businesses.

Committee Chairman Lois Sheaff, is pleased to announce that Elizabeth Cockey, will be this year's keynote speaker. Elizabeth is an artist, painter and author who has achieved national acclaim for her work with long-term and palliative care facilities as an Art Therapist. She holds Bachelor degrees in both Art and Psychology and a Masters degree in Art Therapy.

Having created recreational art therapy programs in the Baltimore area for over 25 years, Elizabeth is also the author of several books, including Upstate New York: Towns That We Love, an illustrative history about the upper Hudson River Valley.

Ms. Cockey's keynote address is entitled "The Art of Making It Up: A Career in Painting, Sculpting and Creating". She will tell how she became an art therapist starting "from scratch" and eventually achieving national acclaim for her work with the elderly. Her talk will be filled with both funny and difficult stories that will touch the hearts and minds of any audience. Elizabeth will also provide insights that will benefit the entire care-giving community. She will discuss how art in a therapeutic setting is a solution to socialization which increases a quality of life and boosts self-esteem in anyone who is institutionalized for Alzheimer's disease and other cognitive affective disorders.

In addition to the keynote address, participants will have the opportunity to choose from three of six workshops that will be offered throughout the popular full day event, which is cosponsored by the Salem Area Woman's Club and Glens Falls Hospital.

Registration

Pamphlets including registration forms will be available at locations in Salem, Cambridge and Greenwich or by contacting Women's Health Day Chairman Lois Sheaff 677-5562

Historical Society Celebrating its 75th Year

McClellan-Gariepy Home – Salem, one of the homes on the WCHS architectural tour.

FORT EDWARD – The Washington County Historical Society will be having a number of special events in 2015 in celebration of the 75th anniversary of the founding of the organization in 1940.

Historic House Tour

Our first event of the year will be a “Historic Washington County House Tour” on Saturday, May 30 from 1-5 p.m. We will be sponsoring a guided architectural house tour featuring 4 houses in and around Salem and will include wine and cheese. WCHS trustee, Bill Krattinger who is experienced in historic building analysis with the New York State Office of Parks, Recreation, and Historic Preservation, will be the tour leader. Attendees will travel by bus. The cost of the tour will include wine and cheese and bus transportation to all the houses. The fee for this event is $40. Proceeds from the tour will benefit WCHS and its programming. For reservations contact the 747-9108. The Wing-Northup House is open Wed. and Fri. from 10 a.m. – 4 p.m.

History Fair

The next major event will be our fourth History Fair: “When Johnny Comes Marching Home Again: 150 Years Since the End of the Civil War and the Return of the 123rd Regiment” which will be held on Saturday, September 26, 2015 from 10 a.m. – 4 p.m. at the Salem Central School and the Historic Courthouse Community Center across the street. The event will feature exhibits by historians and historical societies of Washington County towns/villages showing our county’s role in the Civil War effort. In addition to the exhibits, there will be programs and activities for all ages all day long. Titles for three of the programs scheduled to date are “Civil War and Baseball”, “The ‘Real’ Life of a Civil War Soldier”, and “At My General’s Side to the End”:

a re-enactment of Sam Willett, bodyguard to Ulysses S. Grant (from Argyle). There will be vendors at the Historic Courthouse including sellers of books and authentic documents. There will also be some reproduction quilts of the period and the great grandchildren of Duane Hall will be displaying his uniform and other memorabilia from his service in the 123rd Regiment. Salem Stewart’s will have food available on-site for purchase.

Special Performances

Phil Jessen, a re-enactor from Hartford, will portray President Lincoln for three performances at the Salem Central School on Friday, September 25 to encourage students to come to the History Fair at their school on Saturday. He will also do one performance for the public on Saturday afternoon. In addition, the culminating activity on Saturday will be a concert by the 77th Regimental Balladeers, a choral group specializing in the music of the Civil War. The Balladeers have performed at many venues including The Cooperstown Farmer’s Museum, Grant’s Cottage, Antietam National Military Park, and at the Gettysburg Battlefield. In addition to singing, they will be performing on a wide variety of instruments including fiddles, guitars, banjos, mandolin, bass, trumpet and dulcimer to name a

Celebrating 75 Years

The third major event “Celebrating 75 Years of the Washington County Historical Society: Our Past, Present, and Future”, will be on Saturday, October 24 at the Fort Miller Reformed Church in historic Fort Miller (off Rt. 4 between Schuylerville and Fort Edward). This program will begin at 10 a.m. with a coffee hour and will incorporate our annual meeting at 10:30 a.m. There will be a luncheon (price TBD) at noon and at 1 p.m. Dr. Clifford Brown, historian and faculty member at Union College will present a new program: “New Findings in the Continuing Saga of Solomon Northup.” There is no charge to attend Dr. Brown’s talk.

2015 promises to be an exciting year for the Washington County Historical Society. Please join us for our year of celebrations to learn about history in our own backyards! There is no charge for any of the events except for the house tour fund raiser and the annual meeting luncheon (price TBD). Donations are gladly accepted. For more information about any of our events, please visit our website www.wchs-ny.org or call our headquarters at 747-9108 Wednesday or Friday from 10 a.m. – 4 p.m.

13th Annual Cambridge Valley Balloon Festival ~ June 5, 6 & 7

Featuring Balloons, Fireworks, and a New Auto Show!

CAMBRIDGE – The 13th Annual Cambridge Valley Balloon Festival is just around the corner. The festival kicks off on the morning of Friday, June 5 with an inflation demonstration at 8:30 a.m. for students at Cambridge Central School. And that's just the beginning!

Back this year are 10 featured pilots who will fly up to 12 different balloons during the weekend's four scheduled launches (Friday & Saturday evenings at 6:30 p.m. and Saturday & Sunday mornings at 5:30 a.m.). Launches are at the Cambridge Central School and times are approximate and dependent on weather and winds. A carnival benefitting the Cambridge Booster Club and the PTP will occur adjacent to the launch area both nights.

Friday night features Opening Ceremonies at 6 p.m. A spectacular Fireworks Celebration closes out opening day – best viewing is from the Cambridge Guest Home lawn.

After the early morning launch on Saturday, there are many events going on throughout the Village and surrounding area. Community organizations are offering breakfasts, craft shows, antique sales, children's activities, a lacrosse tournament, open houses, tours of historical buildings, and the First Balloon Festival Auto Show, organized by the Cambridge Lions in VARAK Park. Live music and performances organized by the Chamber will accompany the auto show.

At 5 p.m., the Taste of Cambridge Food Festival gets underway in the field behind the Cambridge Village Market at the Cambridge Guest Home Park. Enjoy dinner and head over to the launch, or stay around and enjoy DJ music. Day two ends with the amazing Moon Glow in the guest home park.

The final balloon launch of the weekend will take place on Sunday at 5:30 a.m. The American Legion offers a great breakfast buffet after the launch. Plan to stick around for the Cambridge Farmers' Market in the freight yard behind Hubbard Hall.

The final official event of the weekend will be the Pilot's Breakfast at 10 a.m. This is a popular event, so be sure to contact the Chamber and make your reservations.

Admission to most of the festival events is free thanks to the many local sponsors who support it. To find out more about the festival, and to get the latest schedule details, visit the Chamber's website: www.cambridgenychamber.com, find us on Facebook, or call 518-677-0887.

The Cambridge Valley Balloon Festival is just one of the things that makes the historic Village of Cambridge and southern Washington County a great place to live, play and work.

Tour of the Battenkill: Starting and Finishing at the Washington County Fairgrounds

EASTON – Organizers of the Tour of the Battenkill, scheduled for April 18-19, announced a 68-mile course which will travel through six towns in Washington County and will start and finish at the Washington County Fairgrounds in 2015.

Starting and finishing at the Fairgrounds, the course travels over many of the same roads it has since its beginning in 2005. The Town of Easton features prominently, not only because of the start and finish location in the Town, but also for Meeting House Road which has become one of the more iconic sections of the course with its open landscape and rolling dirt road surface. Meeting House Road is the first of seven dirt road sections in 2015 and will once again be a popular spectator location.

The Towns of Cambridge, White Creek, Jackson, and Salem follow Easton with several challenging climbs and dirt roads, including Stage Road in White Creek, the Eagleville Covered Bridge in Jackson, and Juniper Swamp Road in the Town of Salem.

After the feed zone-rest stop at the Battenkill Valley Creamery in Salem, racers will climb both Joe Bean Road and Riddle Road in the Town of Greenwich on their way toward the Hudson River and the Hamlet of Thompson in the Town of Easton once again. The last climb of the course - Old Schuylerville Road - is also the last dirt road section before the finish just under two miles later at the Fairgrounds.

The complete course map including detailed routes for spectators can be found at the event website at www.tourofthebattenkill.com

The event enters its second decade as the largest Pro/Am cycling race in North America. More than 2500 are expected in 2015.

The event features both amateur and professional races, an open race gran fondo, outdoor expo, and kids races.

For more information, including registration, expo, and sponsorship information, see the event website at www.tourofthebattenkill.com.

Annual Eagle Watch

GREENWICH – Last year’s annual Eagle Watch with Ron Renoni offered spectacular viewing of eagles in flight, copulating and feeding. The outing inspired a collection of beautiful photographs and Devin Bulger’s wonderful descriptive poem that we will share on our website. For this year’s outing, Ron hopes to visit new venues in addition to the proven nests of past years. Join the Battenkill Conservancy at the K-Mart parking lot in Greenwich off Route 29 at 10 a.m. on Saturday, March 14, 2015. A brief overview of eagle behavior and habitat will be given before informal carpools are organized. Warm clothing, scopes and binoculars are recommended. The outing will last about two hours. Pre-registration is requested by emailing BkC@battenkillconservancy.org.

23rd Annual Washington County Fiber Tour

WASHINGTON COUNTY – Washington County is the most agricultural county in Eastern New York, with broad diversity among its farms. The 23rd Annual Washington County Fiber Tour (April 25 and 26, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.) is a strong example of that diversity. A recent study by Helen Trejo of Cornell University concluded that Washington County has the most fiber-producing farms of any in New York State (washingtoncountyfibertour.org).

One of the longest running events of its type in the United States, the Fiber Tour this year showcases 15 farms and a large commercial yarn mill. “Visitors will meander through the most scenic parts of our County,” said Lubna Dabbagh of Blind Buck Farm. “Pick any farm as a starting point, then travel along our winding roads and through our historic villages. Enjoy meeting the farmers and their animals.”

The farms feature both the animals and their products, and many Tour members exhibit their live animals, shorn fiber, yarns and other products at fairs and festivals. They frequently win major prizes at events like the Eastern States Exposition, the NYS Sheep and Wool Festival, New England Area Cashmere Goat Show, and the Southern Adirondack Fiber Festival.

Awards like these attest to the quality visitors will experience on the Tour. Several farms raise sheep, a diverse species with many different types of wool for many uses from carpets to baby clothes. The most primitive sheep breed on the Fiber Tour is the double-coated Icelandic, with its long silky fibers that cover a soft undercoat. Another rare breed is the Leicester Longwool, which George Washington and Thomas Jefferson both imported.

The long-wooled Romney is the most popular on the Tour, with six farms raising flocks of this breed. Other farms raise Blue-Faced Leicesters and the Friesian, a dairy breed.

Five farms on the Tour focus on alpacas. This elegant and attractive species, a delight for adults and children, produces a luxury fiber that lends itself to clothing as elegant as the animal.

Gentle angora rabbits are also a hit on the Tour. Covered with soft fiber, they invite petting and cuddling. Cashmere goats and angora goats round out the animals to see on the Tour.

Fiber Tour members promote the textile arts with demonstrations and workshops each year, such as hand spinning and dyeing demonstrations, clipping fur from angora rabbits, felt making, and wool carding and blending fibers from different species. Handspinners and farmers can also learn how to choose fleeces and live animals for their fiber quality.

Fun activities include tours of the fiber mill, goat cart driving, sheep shearing, sheepdog herding and finger puppets for children. Young animals continually surprise with their antics while their dams hover nearby. Individual farms also offer for sale breeding stock, unprocessed and processed fiber products, and a wide variety of quality handcrafted items in their shops – from yarn to garments designed by the members. As a bonus, visitors will also find Tuscan cheeses and cuts of lamb.

Chili Chow Down Challenge

GREENWICH - Community spirit is heating up for the fourth annual Chili Chow Down Challenge on Wednesday, March 25.

This year's co-sponsors, Comfort Food Community and the Greater Greenwich Chamber of Commerce, are pleased to announce that an anonymous donor has made a pledge to match whatever amount the event raises. Proceeds will benefit the Greenwich Food Pantry. Last year's event raised $1,400.

In another show of generosity, WAMC's popular Roundtable host, Joe Donahue, has volunteered to host the Challenge, which will again be held from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. at the Elks Lodge at the corner of State Route 40 and Bulson Road in Greenwich. Throughout the event, you'll find him checking in with the competitors and guests.

Adding to the fun, Jays DJ Service, will provide great background sounds for the evening, there will be a 50/50 raffle and the Elks will be selling a wide range of beverages.

Area restaurants and organizations are getting on board and the chili selections this year promise to be more competitive than ever. Everyone who attends can get in on the action by voting for their favorite chili and their favorite vendor decoration.

Admission to the Challenge is $1, or the donation of one non-perishable food item. Additional tasting tickets can be purchased for $1 each and participants can buy as many servings as they like.

Guests are also invited to wear their favorite chili outfit. This is all optional but creativity is certainly encouraged! Toward the end of the evening, a panel of judges will select the best guest outfit, and announce the winner of the coveted Chili Bowl. Last year's winner, Amigo's Cantina in Schuylerville, has vowed to defend its title.

It's fun and food for a great cause and everyone's invited.

For more information, please contact the Chamber at 518-692-7979, or email them at: info@greenwichchamber.org.

June 19-21/Fri and Sat at 8 p.m.; Sun at 2 p.m.: The Secret Garden: The Rose Center Theater in Westminster CA presents their acclaimed production of The Secret Garden, a musical based on the 1911 novel by Frances Hodgson Burnett, with book and lyrics by Marsha Norman and music by Lucy Simon. It premiered on Broadway in 1991 and ran for 709 performances.

Every year for the past five, the Rose's artistic director, Tim Nelson, brings a troupe of actors east to take in some Broadway shows in New York City and remount in Salem one of their successful classic musicals from the previous season at their Orange County theater home. In a departure from previous visits, Nelson has cast The Secret Garden with twenty-five of his students, currently in high school and college. Featured in this cast is Kelsey Kato the Southern California Artist of the Year in Theater, and Vocal Music finalists Lily Buonocore and Garrett Brown.

Set in the early years of the 20th century, The Secret Garden follows Mary Lennox, an eleven-year-old British girl orphaned in India by a cholera outbreak, who is sent to Yorkshire, England, to live with relatives whom she has never met.

June 28, Sunday at 2 p.m.: Country Music Jamboree, with The Spurs USA & The Bluebillies: Two of the region's top country music bands join forces in an exciting afternoon of the sounds of classic country. The Spurs USA, a tight-knit group of veteran musicians, are the favorite country band in the Berkshire's and have entertained regionally at the Saratoga Race Track and Saratoga County Fair. For their third visit to the Fort, they've joined forces with The Bluebillies, a close harmony singing and songwriting band from the foothills of the Adirondack Mountains. In their Fort Salem show, these two solo bands will be jamming together in public for the very first time.

July 10-12/ Fri and Sat at 8 p.m.; Sun at 2 p.m.: Aja Nisenson in Five Years Later: Returning to the Fort after two sold-out shows in our cabaret last fall, Aja Nisenson performs in the world premiere of her new one-woman show, Five Years Later. Nisenson spent some early adult years in Italy, so there may be heavy autobiographical content in her fantasy show of a burgeoning jazz singer who revisits Bologna, Italy, where her music career began. Her publicity describes the show: "One American Girl. One Mammoni (mama's boy). And a sexy jazz club. It's one spicy meat-ball."

An artist who defies accurate description, Aja is a trained singer who weaves unique jazz song interpretations into cutting-edge comic portrayals of outrageously caricatured characters who are instantly recognizable as suppressed elements of all of us.

July 17-19/Fri at 8 p.m.; Sat and Sun at 2 p.m.: Little Red Rid- ing Hood, A Feminist Ecological Musical: A delightfully original take on the classic fairy tale, this Little Red Riding Hood debuted in California in 1976, fully a decade before Stephen Sondheim's Broadway stab at the legend in Into the Woods. Recreated by the Fort's Artistic Director Jay Kerr, this title character notes that a little red riding hood is "a piece of clothing, not somebody's name!" Her name is Rhoda.

A piece for all ages, Little Red Riding Hood is more Betty Freidan than Betty Boop, exploring the seemingly ageless issues of equal pay for equal work, personhood, and the deteriorating environment. Although it sounds more like the platform for the 2016 Presidential Election than fairytale, the traditional characters, including a wolf who has been raised to be vegetarian and a grandmother mired in the past, are joined by two plucky flowers and Mother Nature herself.

July 25-26, Sat and Sun at 2 p.m.; August 1-2, Sat at 2 p.m. and 8 p.m., Sun at 2 p.m.: The Singing Anchors/From San José to Broadway and Bacharach: The Fort's popular touring group, The Singing Anchors, comes home for the debut performance of a brand new musical adventure, a salute to the guru of twentieth century popular music, Burt Bacharach. From "Do You Know the Way to San José" to the score of the Broadway musical Promises, Promises, through "Raindrops Keep Fallin'

On My Head" and more recent collaborations with Elvis Costello and Spring Awakening's Steven Sater, the anchors' enthusiastically explore Bacharach's unique blend of irregular rhythms with soaring melodies.

An opportunity to see your favorite newscasters in an up-close-and-personal setting, Jessica Layton and Benita Zahn, from Newschannel 13, are joined by CBS6 anchor emeritus, Jerry Gretzinger.

August 7-9 & 15-16, Fri and Sat at 8 p.m., Sun at 2 p.m.: Dracula's Grandmother/A Musical Fable: Since first appearing in book for in 1897, Bram Stoker's gothic vampire novel, Dracula, has fascinated audiences, playwrights, and movie makers alike. Shortly before publication, Stoker himself produced a one-time-and-one-time-only dramatic production of his story at London's Lyceum Theatre, which he managed. Dracula's Grandmother takes off from that historical point.

The virile young actors lament that there are no show girls to ply with their charms. The most celebrated actress of the era, Ellen Terry, not yet cast because the roles are for young women, begs Stoker to create a role for Dracula's grandmother.

The historical dramatic debut of Dracula was a disaster. With mirth and melody, Jay Kerr presents this year's World Premiere Musical as the fabulous explanation as to how such a sure-fire hit was dead on arrival.
